Dr. Ian Feinhandler will explore the historical and ongoing tensions between Russia and the West. For many outside observers, the current tension between Russia and the West stems from the conflict over Ukraine. Ukraine gained independence from the Soviet Union in 1991; since then, it has been plagued with corrupt governance as well as energy dependence on Russia. As both the European Union (EU) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) have expanded from Western Europe toward Russia, some in Ukraine see an opportunity to reduce corruption and break old ties with Russia, while Russia has significant interest in seeing Ukraine remain a satellite-state. However, the tension between Russia and the West exists at a temporal and geographic scale far beyond the Cold War or the current crisis in Ukraine.

Reading with preschoolers every day helps get kids ready to learn to read in kindergarten, and getting free books into homes makes that easier.

Programs for Teens

A new book club
for teens in 8th-12th grades;
Apply to join today online or
at the CATS Desk

Great Stories Book Club

For teens in 8th through 12th grades. Applications are available at the Library and at the Youth Center. Space is limited to a maximum of 12 participants, and applications are due to the Library by February 8 at 9 pm. Participants must commit to attending all book group sessions.

The group will read three books:

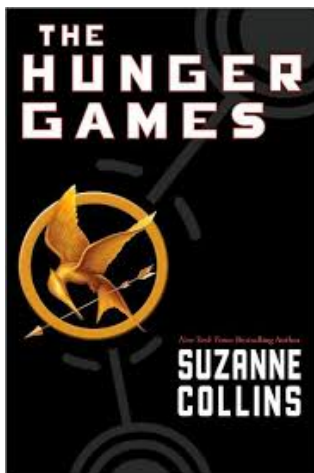

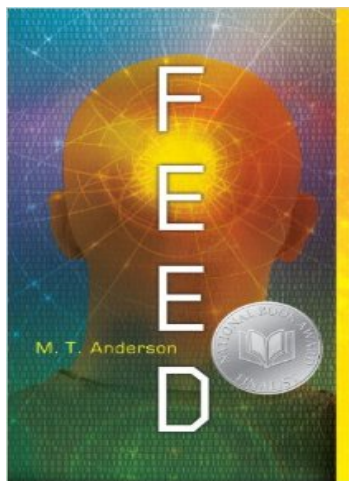

Feed by M.T. Anderson

The Hunger Games by Suzanne Collins

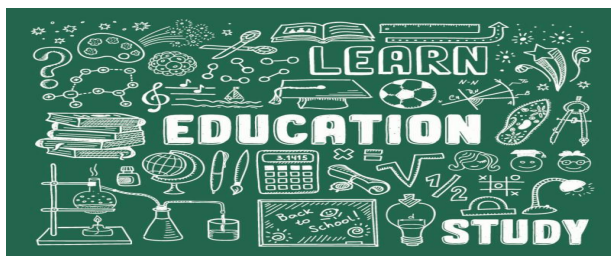

March: Book One by John Lewis, Andrew Aydin, and Nate Powell

These books were chosen by humanities scholars to resonate with young adults who may be reluctant readers and to introduce them to accessible and thought-provoking literature dealing with issues such as incarceration, violence, and poverty.

This innovative book group is a partnership between the Library and the Youth Center and is made possible by a grant from the American Library Association to conduct a Great Stories Club for at-risk youth in our community. Fifty libraries throughout the country were selected to receive grants and participate in this year's Great Stories Club programming.
